SCHAFER BROS. LOUNGE FURNITURE

"Won't you please have a chair"

That one phrase ushers in some of the most pleasant and most important moments in life. It is an offer of hospitality and a warm invitation to break bread. Uttered by a presiding officer, it can initiate a corporate merger or serve as the signal to propose new legislation. Figuratively, even the posture of sitting has importance: the seat of learning—the judge's bench. And the invitation to be seated has encouraged an ardent suitor and stayed a bashful lad's impatience as he waits for his first date.

The chair, therefore, must invite the eye, the body and the soul. It must be designed with artistry and skill to assure its friendly embrace. Crafted in leather, it sets a patrician style in home, executive suite or club.

In modern mode it proclaims a company's progressive outlook, while in classic profile it bespeaks a family tradition. The chair, ottoman or sofa to be worthy of the use for which it is destined, must be a painstaking combination of flawless material, patient and knowing design, and workmanship born of training, pride and devotion to unflinching standards.

It takes all these to produce a superlative chair—a chair, say, such as has made Schafer a leading exponent of gracious seating for a full generation.
